

Welcome to TRPR! We don't take adding a new team member lightly, the fact that we picked you must mean you're pretty awesome. Here are a few things to know to ensure you get off to a great start.

We realize that you've made a big bet on us, we won't let you down. We promise to provide a positive work experience with lots of opportunities to do neat things. Most importantly we'll provide the support you need to succeed in helping make our community happy and healthy.

At TRPR we have a family first work environment. Employees perform way better when they have the freedom to take care of family first. Never hesitate to rearrange your work schedule to attend a basketball game, an awards assembly or to take your kid to the dentist.

Things to know about me:

I have a crazy awesome wife and six mostly fantastic kids. I love baseball, bikes, music, and coaching little kids. I grew up in Lyons Co and went to school at UNC. I'm currently working towards my master's degree at CU.

I can be flighty and forgetful. I truly value you and what you have to say so please never be afraid to tell me things twice.

I like to get to the point, I'm not usually too concerned with details.

I really hate talking on the phone, I prefer an email or a text.

As a supervisor I believe in giving employees the power to make decisions and solve problems. You have the power to say yes! You were hired for a reason, you do you and I'll be here to support you. I'm focused on outcomes not inputs and outputs.

There's no hidden meaning to what I say. I don't ask loaded questions. Don't worry about what I'm thinking, if I have feedback I'll give it. My kids say I have an angry "resting dad face", don't be intimidated, I just have a serious listening face.

I am absolutely thrilled to have the opportunity to work with you.
